Lamb & Barnosky, LLP is one of Long Island, New York's largest and most prestigious full-service law firms, representing a wide variety of corporate, municipal and individual clients. Founded in 1981, the US legal professionals have guided their practice by the principle that all work be performed in accordance with the highest professional and ethical standards. As such, the firm has attained recognition from a number of legislative bodies, including an AV rating from Martindale-Hubbell for the highest standard of legal ability and professional standards of conduct and ethics. In addition, they have also been named to the National Register of Preeminent Lawyers and hold a New York City Tier One/National Tier-Two ranking in Labour Law-Management.

The extensive and complex nature of Lamb & Barnosky's practice is one of their most defining factors, their abilities refined to achieve a national reputation as leading professionals in the field of employment law.

Employment law is a key aspect of Lamb & Barnosky's practice, utilising the talents of a team of dedicated specialists to offer a comprehensive service. Clients range from "mom and pop" (small, independent or family-owned) businesses and not-for-profit organisations, to large publicly-held corporations and municipalities. Their legal services also include representation in litigation on a wide range of matters. These include alternative dispute resolution, defamation and collective bargaining, as well as acting in matters of business restructuring including relocation, closure, acquisitions and reductions in force. The firm dispense advice on everything from employee evaluation, employment agreements and discipline and discharge, to grievance arbitration, mediation and severance agreements.

Lamb & Barnosky frequently appears before arbitrators and local agencies. They have an extensive case-history of dealing with everyone from the New York State Division of Human Rights and U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, to local Human Rights Commissions, the Workers' Compensation Board and the Office of Civil Rights. This experience provides invaluable insight into the particulars and necessities of employment-law issues, including more high-profile instances and issues which require a more finessed approach, including sexual harassment, unfair labour practices, and whistle-blower and retaliation claims.

The extensive and complex nature of Lamb & Barnosky's practice is one of their most defining factors, their abilities refined to achieve a national reputation as leading professionals in the field of employment law. The firm's attorneys regularly counsel employers on day-to-day labour relations, hiring matters and litigation avoidance, offering a "real world" approach for practical solutions to any potential issues, for discernible results that can help shape future employment law policies.
